cordially invite you to participate in a Roundtable Discussion on

The new Public Protector, one year on

A little over a year ago, Adv Busisiwe Mkhwebane took office as Public Protector, having been nominated for the post following an extensive and open selection process conducted by an ad hoc committee of the National Assembly. Adv Mkhwebane's first year in the job has not been an easy one, and some of her decisions – notably her 'instruction' that the Constitution should be amended to alter the mandate of the Reserve Bank – have raised fears about her suitability for the post. Julius Malema alleges that she has been 'captured', while the DA has moved to have her dismissed from office by Parliament. On the other hand, Adv Mkhwebane has admitted that she was mistaken about the Reserve Bank, and she has stood firmly behind the recommendation of her predecessor, Adv Thuli Madonsela, that allegations of state capture should be the subject of a judicial commission of enquiry appointed by the Chief Justice. So, just how good or bad has her performance really been?
